6 / GLASS SHOWCASE

This 4,000-sq.-ft. glass studio in Michigan has launched a line of La Ruche handmade lighting fixtures by glass artist April Wagner at the AD Show. Based on the playful gathering and folding of fabrics, with a nod to the layered organic beauty of a beehive, the La Ruche designs add elegance to both contemporary and traditional spaces. The designs (below) are available as pendants, table lamps, or sconces and can be ordered in a choice of 5 shapes and 10 sizes, ranging in price from $400 to $1,600 each. Each piece is individually hot-sculpted by hand, featuring coiled glass variations with LED lighting and custom hardware suitable for residential, office, or commercial décor.

Also on display was a version of Wagner's 20'-high Tangled Chandelier (at left) comprised of 108 hand-blown, 4-ft. glass pieces cascading from the ceiling in an array of gold tones. The stunning installation was recently featured in Wagner's solo exhibition at the Saginaw Art Museum.
